Email System Screen Variations

Important Note:

Throughout this User Guide, we describe and give examples of how the features of Nationstar Mortgage Secure Email might appear on your computer. Different browsers, different email processing systems, and different versions of an email system may result in differences in the content and format of these screens. However, the way Nationstar Mortgage Secure Email works does not change.

Once you have worked with this system for a short period of time, you will know which screens and features appear differently from the examples shown in this User Guide.

Your Company’s Security Policies and Standards

Please note that the features and functionality provided by the Nationstar Mortgage Secure Email system are not to be used if they violate any security policies, standards, or practices in effect at your company or location.

If you have questions, please review these procedures with your technical advisor or your security manager to ensure that they do not violate the security rules in your workplace.
Creating an Nationstar Mortgage Secure Email Account

Before you can exchange secure email messages with a Nationstar Mortgage Associate, you must first create your Nationstar Mortgage Secure Email account.

The first time you use the Nationstar Mortgage Secure Email system, you will be asked to create an account by entering a password and choosing a “Password Reminder Email Address”.

Your password allows you to open and decrypt secure emails sent from a Nationstar Mortgage Associate, and to originate secure emails to be sent to a Nationstar Mortgage Associate.

You only have to create your account once. After that, all you will have to do is enter your password to use the Nationstar Mortgage Secure Email system.

When you Receive your First Nationstar Mortgage Secure Email

In most cases, you will be asked to create your password when you receive your first secure email sent to you via the Nationstar Mortgage Secure Email system.

A secure email message sent from Nationstar Mortgage arrives in your email system Inbox like any other email message.
